

Adding drone security for the Palais des Festivals de Cannes, a prestigious and world-renowned site

Dardilly and Cannes, 25 November 2019

DELTA DRONE and SEMEC (semi-public Cannes Events Company), responsible for managing the Palais des Festivals et des Congrès de Cannes, announce the signature of a partnership aimed at, on the one hand, optimizing the site's security and, on the other hand, promoting the use of drone security solutions under real conditions.

The first part of this agreement concerns DELTA DRONE providing a permanent drone security system for the PALAIS DES FESTIVALS site. This equipment will report to the security station and provide it with recorded images to be used in the performance of their duties. The purpose of the system is to supplement the current security features and several security officers at the Palais will be trained in its use.

The second part concerns the possibility for DELTA DRONE to organize periodic demonstration/training sessions for its drone security system at the PALAIS DES FESTIVALS. It is therefore to a prestigious and world-renowned site that DELTA DRONE will be able to invite potential clients for a presentation under real conditions to show the effectiveness and expertise of its system.

In order to manage the system effectively, the DELTA DRONE Group has acquired a base in Cannes, having opened an office downtown, right next to the Croisette promenade. Also, all operations will be supervised by Sébastien Beaujean, the Group's Security Director, a well-known Cannes resident famous for his expertise in safety and security, particularly as the architect of the security system set up in Cannes for the 2018 Red Bull Air Race. In August 2019, he coordinated, with Didier Ferrara, head of DELTA DRONE ISS, drone surveillance for the three days of the Cannes Plages Electroniques festival.

Each year, the PALAIS DES FESTIVALS hosts over 50 events and fairs, many of which have world-famous attendees.
